The 16th Annual Arkansas Children's Award Dinner

The 16th Annual Arkansas Children's Award Dinner was a great success! The Ranch recognized and honored Steve Landers for making a difference in the lives of Arkansas' children. Governor Mike Beebe was Master of Ceremonies at the Convention Center in Little Rock on October 13, 2011.

Steve Landers currently serves as president of RLJ-McLarty-Landers Automotive. His dedication to business and management has helped Central Arkansas to be recognized on the global level for automotive sales, but he has continuously been dedicated to giving back to charitable causes in the state.

"Steve has always been a supporter of the young people of Arkansas, whether it's through monetary donations or his time," said Mike Cumnock, Ranch CEO. "More importantly, he's an exceptional role model for the young men and women the Ranch serves, as he demonstrates how hard work and dedication can elevate anyone to the top. We appreciate Steve's unwavering commitment to give back and are proud to present him with this honor."

Each year a Rancher speaks at the dinner about living at the Arkansas Sheriffs' Youth Ranches. This year's speaker was Jamey. He lives at Faith Hall and gave a moving speech. We are so very proud of him and how far he has come. He is taking college classes as well as his high school courses this year and is hoping to pursue a career in the medical profession.

Draining Swamps

by Mike Cumnock, CEO

Several years ago there was a popular poster that read, "It is hard to remember that your job is to drain the swamp when you are surrounded by crocodiles."

While it is no longer acceptable to drain swamps, the sentiment is still valid. I remember also that in the movie/TV show MASH, Hawkeye referred to their place as "the swamp." I have noticed that when my life is out of balance, I begin to focus more on the crocodiles instead of the tasks at hand. However, there does seem to be more crocs than in the past. Our job is to make life better for the children we serve even if we are having to fight incredible odds to make it happen. Unfortunately, when I get stressed I sometimes blurt out statements without thinking them through causing me to have one of those "open mouth, engage foot" moments.

It seems that this fall has been more stressful than usual. Many of the children who are part of our Ranch Family have been struggling at the same time. Usually we have a reasonable balance – some who are really down – at the same time we have others who are doing well. Often the ones doing better will encourage those who are not doing as well.

As we were preparing for this year's Arkansas Children's Award Dinner, it was as if I was doing battle with more folks everyday in order to make good things happen for our kids. I even remarked to a woman representing an agency that was supposed to be working with us for the benefit of children (but wasn't) that, "This work was already hard enough without having to fight our friends to get it done." The comment was a result of her agency failing several times to do what they told children they would do. The children in our care come to us with a history of people, agencies, and systems failing them. It is my in-attention to break that cycle. I ask folks to be honest with our kids even if what they have to say is not what the child wants to hear.

It is our job to do what we believe to be in the child's best interests even if that isn't what the child wants. We should acknowledge that we are aware of their wishes and allow them to express those wishes. However, when the time comes to act, we have to represent their best interests. That is what good parents do! I have done this work for so long that I know that if children know that I really care about them, they can believe that I am trying to do what is best for them. I tell the kids that I am a "professional lover" – that my job is to love them sometimes in spite of their actions.

As I was trying to drain the swamp, so to speak, the battles seemed to get bigger and harder. The day before the dinner I found myself repeatedly blurting out a prayer, "Lord, this is your work; why does it have to be so hard?" Within a couple of hours I received messages from two former residents both of whom were sending words of appreciation for what the Ranch had done for them. One wrote,

"Dear Mr. Mike – and the Arkansas Sheriffs' Youth Ranch Staff, I know that sooo much time has gone by since the day I was introduced to every wonderful staff member at the Youth Ranch (smiley face). I just wanted to let you know that I wouldn't be who I am today without you...and each one made me feel like I was loved and always had a home to come to. You made me feel like a person again and I feel that I can never say thank you enough. Love to each child and staff member goes out from me. Thank you guys so much." I was very moved and sent her back a response thanking her!

The next day I spent time with one of our guys who has been successfully clawing his way out of an emotional "black hole." That night we celebrated the dinner. One of our young men, Jamey, got up and painfully told his story. I believe everyone in the room was moved, and he ended it by thanking his houseparents and the staff who have helped him make the Ranch his home for over four years.

My prayer included the question, "Why does this have to be so hard?" I got my answer in triplicate. Changing lives is hard work! Loving children who are often afraid to be loved and, thus, push us away is hard work yet there is no greater call than to love with all your heart and soul.

Somehow I can now see more clearly that I am surrounded by people who want children to succeed. I hope I never fail to thank you on behalf of children. I want you to know that you are appreciated. Today's prayer is, "Lord, even if the crocodiles get me, please send others to help drain the swamp. Amen."

Thank you!

Mike

Fall Festival

The Ranch hosted a Fall Festival for the kids this year to give them a little break from school. Everyone enjoyed themselves as they took off on a traditional hayride. All the kids got to carve pumpkins, eat caramel apples, and to participate in a bean bag toss. After a few games, everyone went outside and roasted hot dogs over a bonfire. The kids each had a healthy share of roasted marshmallows. At the end of the night every kid got cookies to save for later. After the festival everyone decided to take a trip to the haunted house at Bethesda Community Center. Everyone enjoyed the night playing games and singing hayride songs together.

Baseball Game

Our campus at Batesville has a small baseball field located within walking distance of the houses. Faith Hall was one team and Keith Hall was the other. Neither team kept score; everybody was just having fun. Each kid got a chance to hit the ball and run the bases. The guys were so into the game they were sliding into home plate like professionals. Even the houseparents got a chance to hit the ball out of the park.

FAITH HALL NEWS

By Cheyenne Ingram

We have had a lovely fall, and are looking forward to Christmas. Kaleb and Rob have been playing football for the Pioneers and have really enjoyed it. Jamey is taking some college classes at University of Arkansas Community College at Batesville in addition to his high school courses and that has kept him pretty busy. Jacob has been spending all the time he can at the barn taking care of the horses. Zeke and Colten continue to work out and lift weights. The boys have been busy at their church doing food drives and fundraisers for the food bank. We continue to practice recycling and encourage you all to recycle. Thanks for all you do for us here at the Ranch;

thanks to our Faith group as always. God Bless from Faith Hall.

Steven completed his time at the APPLE program. Zack takes care of his lizards and likes to read all about them. Mathew tinkers with his matchbox cars. Jon-Michael and Zack share the responsibility of sheep, goats, sheep dogs, and Oreo, the house dog. Brandon and Kris are our video games experts. Travis and Steven like to ride horses in their spare time. Jon-Michael likes to tear down bikes, weed eaters, and any other small engine he can find. Steven and Jon-Michael take care of the riding lawn mower and the rest of the boys help with the push mower and weed eaters. Another hobby that the boys have dedicated time to is working on cars. Steven in particular really enjoys working on engines.

OLDS COTTAGE NEWS

Rentals of the various specialty buildings on campus have been steady, even during the heat of the summer. Weddings, family reunions, school and church group retreats have been a steady source of activity on campus.

We recently received permission from the Corps of Engineers to build a floating dock. However, the guidelines for the dock are specific and before construction can begin, research has to be done regarding the stringent regulations and funding for the specific materials must be acquired. Plans are to have the dock ready for next season if all goes well.

We are still working out the details for a barn for this campus, the livestock plans for DeGray are considerably smaller than those at Batesville; we anticipate raising dairy goats, chickens, and possibly a few horses for trail rides and equine assisted therapy, or possibly driving livestock. Due to our remote location, we will also have to acquire Great Pyrenees dogs to protect the smaller animals from the prolific population of predators around the lake.

We plan to participate in Country Christmas this year with a fundraising project; our girls will be making home décor wreaths. One of our girls is in "Upward Bound," a college prep program sponsored by Ouachita Baptist University, and she has also been invited to join her classmates on a junior trip to Washington, D.C. A fundraising effort on her behalf has already begun; at least one local organization is aware of the need and is looking into what they may do to help.

Our girls are doing well academically, are participating in band; one is in the High School Marching Band, participated in the Pike County Fair Parade, (one of them even milked a goat at the fair!) and a local fishing derby. They are making friends at school and attend church regularly.

The girls spent much of the summer taking advantage of our beautiful lake. Canoeing, swimming, wading and trying to coax Duncan, our Irish Wolfhound, into the water occupied as much time as possible in the heat of these past few months. Bicycles and paddleboats found their way down here, and the girls have enjoyed time spent riding the bikes throughout our campus.

While the heat of the day drove us inside, we shared the days reading, watching old videos, playing games, and just hanging out together. The staff and girls at DeGray spent time working, shopping, and playing through the summer and learned the easiest way to beat the heat...was to join Duncan in the shade....

T-Tauri

Three films made by members of the T Tauri Nation were screened in the Youth Showcase at the Indie Memphis Film Festival. A few of our kids helped create the three films selected for the showcase. Zeke from Faith Hall was a part of the short film "Movie Mania" as well as one of our girls Miranda. Kris from Keith Hall helped out with animation for the short film "Humanimation."

"An Invitation for All"

By Dr. Fred Hueston, CFRE, Director of Gift Planning

A recent visit to the beautiful hills surrounding Mountain View led me to the home of long-time Ranch supporters Shirley and Hannah Dyke, who reside south of town approximately six miles off of a beautiful county road.

For our visit, the Dykes had something they were indeed excited to show me. They are constantly improving and upgrading much of their land and buildings. Recently, they had purchased property adjoining their residence, and after nearly a year of diligent work, they have completed the entire restoration of a second "home" for the benefit of the Ranch children, our house parents, and even the Ranch Boy Scout Troop to potentially use and enjoy!

The foresightedness of the Dykes, not only as they work to consistently upgrade and apply conservation measures to their property, but as they consider the long-term needs of the Ranch children – is indeed a special opportunity for the children at the Ranch to experience an environment filled with the love and caring spirit of two very genuine friends of the Ranch – Shirley and Hannah Dyke.

We sincerely express our gratitude to the Dykes for their outward expression of interest, support and care of the Ranch children! They are indeed an inspiration to all of us.

The Superintendent's Scoop

By Philip Ives

We are starting a show program here at the Batesville Ranch for the kids that involves our new addition of sheep. I know that this is the easiest project to start as far as a show project for anyone just starting out. After a few e-mails, a donor offered to buy the Ranch a set of four ewe lambs to show in the fall, and then we are going to use the lambs to start raising our own flock of sheep. The lambs came from a breeder in Mississippi who is very well known for raising high quality show lambs. The kids at the Ranch are excited about the new project and are starting to prepare the animals to show at the North Central Arkansas District Fair in the fall of 2012. I hope to grow the program to the point of raising our own show lambs to take to the Arkansas State Fair as early as next year. The reason we are starting a show program is that I want the Ranchers to have the opportunity to show animals and understand the importance of farming in many different aspects. I feel that this program will help our kids learn responsibility, leadership, a hard work ethic, and an overall feeling of pride! The skills listed are all traits that we need to have, but they are especially something that the kids in today's society need! We hope to expand the variety of animals soon to include goats and cattle. We are just trying to get new and exciting opportunities for the children here at the Ranch!!

CONTEST

The Ranch held a contest to see what the children thought about responsibility. They were asked to write a short essay on "How they can teach respect and responsibility." Colten from Faith Hall won the contest.

How can I teach respect responsibility?

By Colten

My ideas on teaching respect and responsibility.

Idea 1: When I was at my other program, I learned how to respect the people that I trusted. If you allow the person to get to know you, then you will allow them to slowly gain respect for you. But you have to be willing to show them respect in turn.

Idea 2: My view on respect is that you cannot teach a person how to respect others but you can teach them the tools to be respectful. You can give them the tools that will give them the choice to be respectful or not to be. I say you cannot teach people how to respect others because that is their choice-not yours.

Idea 3: Respect is a necessity but it is not something that comes naturally to people. You have to teach yourself to respect the person when you are with them even if you do not enjoy their company. This is like a job. If you have the job you have always wanted but your boss is a jerk, then if you say disrespectful things to him, you will be fired. But, say mentally you disrespect him, that is your choice; on the outside though, you need to respect everybody. These problems are very serious, and they don't just disappear.

School

The Residents have been going to school for about four months now and are doing reasonably well. Each of the children here at the Ranch attends to tutoring Monday through Thursday. The tutoring staff is made up of volunteers and school employees. It is there that the kids can find help on their homework and spend time reading in our library. A few of the ranchers are taking Spanish this year and are trying to master conversation skills. Math, a large part of every kid's education, takes time and dedication to understand. Every day they learn a new lesson to build upon what they have already learned. This generation is becoming more dependent on computers as our young people try to build their computer skills. Sometimes the kids can even teach their tutors a thing or two when it comes to technology! Art projects are encouraged for every student, and this gives them a chance to show us their natural talents.
